FRANKLIN CELEBRATED MEMORIAL

The people of Franklin carried out a very successful programme on Memorial Day. The schools with their teachers and the various committees did excellent work in helping to make this day one to be remembered.

There are three cemeteries in Franklin in which are buried about 12 Revolutionary soldiers besides many Civil war veterans. The school children decorate all these graves in different parts of the town.

The afternoon services which were attended by around 300 people were held.

The of civilization and that nothing had been added since the first great laws were established except that Christ added "Love thy neighbor as thyself," and also shed His blood for this great cause.

The following was the program carried out in the church:
Salute to flag; song, Star Spangled Banner; Gettysburg Speech, by schools; greetings F. S. Armstrong; prayer, Rev. W. J. Tate; song, Rally Round the Flag. Boys, schools; recitation, A. Welcome, Mildred Manning, Frances Lamb, Celia Jacobs; recitations, Memorial Day, An-

of the town.

The afternoon services which were attended by around 360 people were held on Meeting House hill. After dinner was served the schools formed a double time through which the Civil war veterans, the sons, daughters and widows of veterans, the World war veterans and the school board and speakers, passed into the Congregational church in which the active wars and the services were held.

F. S. Armstrong, chairman of Memorial day exercises, opened the program of the afternoon. He spoke of the great tignificance of the day and that there was a broader and deeper principle involved than merely carrying out the expression of the order of the maintain those national policies for which our forefathers so carnestly and strenuously endeavored to establish.

Major Hadlai A. Hull of New London, the speaker of the afternoon, spoke on the great cause of liberty. He said that we had lived during three wars and they had all been fought in the cause of liberty. That liberty was not bought at the price of eternal vigiliance, but at the price of blood. Liberty had been in the price of eternal vigiliance, but at the price of eternal vigiliance, but at the price of blood. Liberty had been looked the program and the price of eternal vigiliance, but at the price of blood. Liberty had been looked the program of the price of eternal vigiliance, but at the pr
